CONSTRUCTION F 78

Codecasa has recently announced the sale of a new 55 metre, Construction F78. This yacht boasts four decks, a steel hull and aluminium alloy superstructure. The silhouette is refined and tough looking – no frills – very much in line with the yard's styling the design of which was carried out by the in-house team. The interiors are still being defined and will be drawn up by architect Tommaso Spadolini.

The four decks feature ample glazed panels which deliver loads of natural light inside. The layout envisages up to five cabins including the owner's lodgings which will presumably be situated on the main deck. The guest cabins should be made up of two VIPs and two twins while the crew's should comprise six doubles and one on the bridge deck by the helm controls station for the captain. The engine room houses a pair
